Tip of the Week!

BY AMY KENDREE

ORGANIZATION IS KEY

In this new routine with a lot more free time, it can be easy to lose track of time and forget about deadlines. Keeping a planner to record upcoming online assignments and due dates is a great way to have all deadlines in one place. Checking email and canvas often is another great way to keep yourself organized, accountable, and “in the know”.

Congratulations!

Professor Lopez-Cabrales would like to share with her colleagues and the students that she has received the 2020 Hazaleus Award from the Center for Women's Studies and Women's Studies.

Hazaleus Award:
The Hazaleus Award is given to recognize people at CSU who: a) serve as a role model for women on campus; b) make outstanding achievements that enhance the campus environment for women; c) have a sustained record of support to women; d) actively work on behalf of women, including evidence of significant mentoring. The Margaret B. Hazaleus Awards nominations deadline is mid-February and notification happens in early March. Hazaleus award winners receive a check for $1,000 and an engraved clock. Their names are added to the Hazaleus Award Plaque located outside the CWSGR. Hazaleus award recipients are honored at the Celebrate Colorado State Awards in April of each year.
“Russian is my first language and before learning ASL, I took five years of French. Languages are relevant to any psychology work as they enable you to communicate with a wider variety of people. I will be the person that people call when they need someone to communicate in another language. I will be the person that will be able to help deaf kids struggling with mental illness.”
