Tip of the Week!

BY AMY KENDREE

UTILIZE YOUR RESOURCES

We strongly recommend signing up for your professor’s virtual office hours if you have questions, concerns, or need clarification. They are eager to help!

TILT is also a great resource to find additional tips including time management, note-taking and study strategies. Lastly, check out CSU’s success guide to online classes to help guide you towards success.
Congratulations!

Jax Long Microbiology
Spring ‘21

Jax, a Colorado native, spent a few years abroad before coming to CSU. He has a passion for health care, infectious disease work specifically. He hopes to use his skill of speaking Spanish to reach more places in Central and South America with his degree in Microbiology. In his scarce free time, he enjoys fishing, bartending, and shooting pool.

“I think that speaking two languages opens lots of doors. It certainly opens more doors than it closes. My dream job is working with epidemics in the developing world, much of which speaks Spanish.”
Fantastic Faculty: Kate Kim

Poder

It gives and takes,
a flirty tease,
the waves upon the shore.
A gentle kiss,
a sweet caress, mas nunca nada more.
El baile sigue siempre,
the sand loving the game;
que recibe el toco mil veces
but still never the same.
The water flies to taunt him,
the sand so powerless.
It pokes and jabs and slaps to receive na’ más respect.
But it has no control, verdad,
a power steers its ser.
Algo, fuerte, aún still unknown,
the wind laughs at the land.
What power holds that which unseen,
and we, tan small y lame.
Piénsate what we could do
if we saw in us the same.
